DONALD RISKS LIFE TONIGHT.

New Decision System for the Vernon Bouts.

Full Responsibility to Rest with Referee.

Jimmy Dundee and Jimmy Ford in Main Scrap.

The bravest man in the world will be seen in action at the Vernon arena tonight in the person of Dick Donald. The gentlest sport of packing the buck in the past has saved a number of lives, the angry populace refraining from bloodshed simply because they didn't know who was ordering first, the referee or the judges.

This time Donald must go it alone as Jack Doyle has abolished forever the judges and if anybody is to be killed or injured it will be because of the referee's decision. The nerve is vouched for by the fact that he used to manage a fighter and also ran a fight club once. He will appear this evening in a full suit of armor and upholstered with machine guns and hand grenades for repelling boards.

Four young men who have made their reputations at the expense of Young Brown's handsomeness and tenacity will mingle in the final bouts of the evening. Jimmy Dundee and Jimmy Ford, who meet in the main event both got famous by beating Brown, and Gene Watson and Togo Korriyama likewise drew the attention of the multitude by mauling around with the dark wonder for four rounds apiece on several occasions.

Jimmy Dundee and Jimmy Ford both hail from San Francisco and vicinity and both have shown a remarkable desire to lower their defenses and fall away until pulled down from their opponents. Watson is a clever boxer who always puts up a good bout and Korriyama is a Japanese boxer who doesn't know what his second means when they yell "Whoa" or "Back up."

HAVE DIFFERENCE. Al Grunau and Tommy Richards, who have met a couple of times with the boxing in Grunau's favor and the decisions in Richards, will continue their little argument and the boxing seems to be that Mr. Richards will be in for a trimming, although there is little danger of any calls for an ambulance.

Joe Penna and Elmer Brown, the knock-out dead kids, will be featured in their watchful specialty of providing work for the timekeeper tonight. They have met twice and each has scored a clean knockout. The only thing new for them to do is to both land at the same time and provide the fans with the novel and interesting sight of two young men fast asleep on the tarpaulin at the same time. Joe Shad and Tommy McMahon, lightweights, and Sidney White and Ted Levin at 115 pounds, will provide the early entertainment of the evening.

NEBRASKA-PLAN WAR FINANCE.

Pasadena War Societies Hear Workings Explained.

Banker Edwards Proposes Raid on Sooty Chimneys.

Electric Railway Fare Raise Meets with Protest.

PASADENA, July 8.—The war finance plan used in Nebraska and declared to be the most successful used in the nation was outlined yesterday by Mr. George Coupland, vice-president of the Nebraska State Council of Defense, in a conference with R. D. Johnson, chairman of the Pasadena War Societies. Mr. Coupland has been spending a vacation at No. 507 Bellefontaine street, and leaves today for Carmel Beach with Mrs. Coupland.

"Nebraska uses the index system, a quasi-confidential registration of the financial ability of every citizen of the State," explained Mr. Coupland. "When the quota for a drive is received it is apportioned by the State, the county and the community. What every individual should be able to do is known and, while there is no law, there is the force of moral coercion, which is stronger than any law, and in many counties not a single individual is asked to appear before the council of defense to tell why he has not contributed or subscribed his share. "The Nebraska record is more remarkable when it is considered that in many of our counties the population is 45 per cent. German. This necessitated a period of readjustment, but we were on a sound basis by the time the third Liberty Loan had been reached and there were very few delinquents in the State. Our war savings pledges have been greatly oversubscribed, and our plan studied for adoption by the national committee of the war savings societies.

"The individual data was secured by the naming of a certain date for the citizens to appear at their polling places, where they filled out cards stating their financial resources. When the last Red Cross drive came along many counties had already prepared a budget and as soon as their quotas were received they mailed a check for the amount. The Y.M.C.A., the Knights of Columbus, and all war council drives are handled through the same medium."

Mr. Coupland is an agriculturist and regent of the State University. He is a regular winter visitor to California, but says that war work necessitated a vacation this year.

DIVINE ON VACATION.

Rev. Dr. Leslie E. Learned, Mrs. Learned and their children, Kenneth and Margaret, leave today for Carmel on a six weeks' vacation. They will travel by machine, and Mr. Learned will be accompanied by Mr. H. B. Edwards, president of the Pasadena War Societies. Mr. Coupland has been spending a vacation at No. 507 Bellefontaine street, and leaves today for Carmel Beach with Mrs. Coupland.

HANKER AFTER CHIMNEYS.

Encouragement is given the ancient and honorable calling of chimney sweeping in Pasadena by A. E. Edwards, president of the First National Bank, who is also Fuel Administrator for Pasadena. Recently Mr. Edwards received instructions from Albert E. Schwabacher, State Fuel Administrator, and information to the effect that heat would penetrate one one-hundredth of an inch of soot and ten inches of iron during the same time.

has led him to believe that there are many sooty flues in the Crown City and he is planning a sweeping campaign.

Dr. Robert Freeman is in Washington, D. C., and with Mrs. Freeman and children are spending a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Fleming, according to word received by Dr. John Willis Baer, Dr. Freeman will spend a month recuperating from his year in army Y.M.C.A. work in Europe, returning here in time to resume his duties on August 4. On July 25 he will address the Sunday Evening Club in New York City.

UNDER SURGEON'S CARE.

Edward Grace, general secretary of the Pasadena Y.M.C.A., is reported as resting easily following an operation for appendicitis occasioned by an attack of indigestion on Sunday.

FILES PROTEST.

That Crown City residents will vigorously combat the proposal of the Pacific Electric Railroad Company to increase rates of fares on its lines was evidenced today, when City Attorney John Munger filed a protest with the State Railroad Commission. The objection is based on the ground that the present business of the company is such that any raise in existing passenger tariffs affecting Pasadena is not justified.

HARBOR SHIPYARDS HOLD HIGH PLACES.

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, July 8.—Local wooden and steel shipbuilding plants continue to hold high places among all the shipyards of the United States according to the figures of the Emergency Fleet Corporation in regard to work accomplished during the month of May, which were published today.

True Loyalty.

FOUR SONS IN SERVICE; TWO ARE "OVER THERE."

LOS ANGELES BEACH, July 8.—Mr. and Mrs. George Moody of No. 1214 Fourteenth street have the proud distinction of having four strapping sons now wearing the uniform of Uncle Sam, the last one to go being Fred W. Moody, aged 25 years, who went from here last week with the contingent of selected men for special duty with the aviation branch of the Signal Corps at Yonkers Barracks, Wash. He is a first-class electrician and mechanic, as is also his brother, George E. Moody, who is in England with the Three Hundred and Seventy-third Aero Squadron, U.S.A. He is 25 years of age. The third son, Leo R. Moody, 23 years old, who left his third year at Berkeley to attend an officers' training camp, is now a first lieutenant. He is stationed at Camp Lewis, Wash., with the Forty-fourth United States Infantry.

AT THE FRONT.

The fourth boy, who is only 21 years old, is the first to see active service. He is "somewhere in France" with the Six Hundred and Forty-sixth Ambulance Section, a unit which has been honored by the French, to whose army it is attached, with the Croix de Guerre, for gallantry in rescuing wounded under severe shell fire. This member of the Moody family, Frank J. Moody, had just completed his freshman year at Berkeley when he volunteered for service. In a letter just received by his parents he writes in part as follows:

"You no doubt are hearing a great deal of the big German offensive. It is certainly true that such an offensive is taking place and in regular form. The Boche continually advance, but their casualties are wondrously great. You have heard of the ambulance driver who often times must go on duty for seventy-two hours straight. I just finished my first tour, and am now 'at rest'."

"During an advance on the front things are so busy that one could not, who has not seen it all, believe the village streets to be as busy as they are. I never saw so much traffic, coming and going, of all descriptions. This afternoon I just came off 'reps.'"

REST AFTER DUTY.

"It seems good," the letter concludes, "to have a little rest after much duty. Ambulance work is a wonderful occupation, and we feel that we are of use, but like anything else it gets tiresome. Lately we have had much experience in repairing Boche armor. They have been quite busy at night times. Don't worry at all about me. I am glad to be doing my share for the country and for the Allies."

In addition to the four sons in the United States Army, there are three other children, a boy and girl of grammar school age at home and a married daughter.

A fighting quartette, sons of Mr. and Mrs. George Moody, No. 1214 Fourteenth street, Santa Monica, who are in the service of Uncle Sam. Two of the boys are now in Europe.

In Colorado River.

IMPERIAL VALLEY ASKS WASHINGTON FOR WEIR.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

EL CENTRO, July 8.—Following an abrupt refusal on the part of the Yuma Water Users' Association to agree to the construction of a temporary weir in the Colorado River to assure a plentiful supply of water for Imperial Valley's half million acres of crops, representatives of the Imperial Irrigation District, in conference at El Centro, today served notice that a peremptory order from the War Department would be forthcoming ordering the construction of the weir in the river quickly.

Because of the increased acreage for crops and the consequent heavy demand for water this season, the installation of a weir is considered necessary. Because Yuma Valley would be affected materially by floods caused by the presence of a weir in case of sudden high water, the approval of the water users of the Little Valley of 25,000 acres has heretofore been necessary to get the government to permit the weir to be built. It was pointed out at the conference that no time is to be lost if a weir is to do any good this season, but Yuma representatives were immovable. It was reported tonight, however, that it was not known whether the weir would be built, because of certain clauses they considered objectionable in the contract providing for connecting the Imperial Valley system with Laguna Dam, a project now under consideration.

The Imperial Valley delegation, including Chairman Leroy Holt, Director J. S. Nickerson, Attorney Phil D. Swing and T. P. Banta, were on their way home tonight from the conference, which they are declared to have considered a failure. Because of the great acreages of essential crops now being grown in Imperial Valley, it was expected here tonight that a peremptory order from the War Department would be forthcoming ordering the construction of the weir in the river quickly.

CHAMBER DISCUSSES DEHYDRATING PLANT.

LANKERSHIM, July 8.—At a special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, further steps were taken to complete plans for a new dehydrating plant to operate this season at Lankershim. The surplus apricots estimated as in excess of what the canneries and markets will handle is near 2000 tons, making urgent need of more effective methods of drying and preserving, according to local authorities.

JAP FISHERMEN DEFY ORDER OF CRANDALL.

LOS ANGELES HARBOR, July 8.—By refusing to go to sea to fish for albacore and tuna at $100 per ton, the hundreds of Japanese fishermen of San Pedro today removed all doubt as to whether or not they would accept the challenge of Food Administrator Merritt and Fish Administrator Crandall that their licenses would be revoked if they failed to go back to their work today.

The Japanese were served with an ultimatum by Fish Administrator Crandall Saturday that if they failed to resume their fishing by today night, for which they received the regular rate of $100 per ton, or $1200. Eight canneries in San Pedro, Wilmington and Long Beach are working on tuna and albacore. The former variety are running well and little difficulty is experienced getting boatloads, while a number of boats are at sea in search of albacore.

DOLLAR-A-YEAR MAN.

DUNBAR, July 7.—W. B. Nichols, banker and fruit grower of this city, has left for Washington to work for a dollar a year. Mr. Nichols has been appointed an assistant to the Food Administrator and will be in charge of the work of the division devoted to distribution of dried fruits.

In Colorado River.

IMPERIAL VALLEY ASKS WASHINGTON FOR WEIR.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

EL CENTRO, July 8.—Following an abrupt refusal on the part of the Yuma Water Users' Association to agree to the construction of a temporary weir in the Colorado River to assure a plentiful supply of water for Imperial Valley's half million acres of crops, representatives of the Imperial Irrigation District, in conference at El Centro, today served notice that a peremptory order from the War Department would be forthcoming ordering the construction of the weir in the river quickly.

Because of the increased acreage for crops and the consequent heavy demand for water this season, the installation of a weir is considered necessary. Because Yuma Valley would be affected materially by floods caused by the presence of a weir in case of sudden high water, the approval of the water users of the Little Valley of 25,000 acres has heretofore been necessary to get the government to permit the weir to be built. It was pointed out at the conference that no time is to be lost if a weir is to do any good this season, but Yuma representatives were immovable. It was reported tonight, however, that it was not known whether the weir would be built, because of certain clauses they considered objectionable in the contract providing for connecting the Imperial Valley system with Laguna Dam, a project now under consideration.

The Imperial Valley delegation, including Chairman Leroy Holt, Director J. S. Nickerson, Attorney Phil D. Swing and T. P. Banta, were on their way home tonight from the conference, which they are declared to have considered a failure. Because of the great acreages of essential crops now being grown in Imperial Valley, it was expected here tonight that a peremptory order from the War Department would be forthcoming ordering the construction of the weir in the river quickly.

TELEPHONE HEARING
SET FOR WEDNESDAY.CASE COMES BEFORE STATE
RAILROAD COMMISSION AT SANTA MONICA.

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.) SANTA MONICA BEACH, July 8.—A hearing before the State Railroad Commission on the application of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company to sell out their Santa Monica Bay district lines and exchange to the Santa Monica Bay Home Telephone Company will be held at the Santa Monica Beach City Hall on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. The Santa Monica Ocean Park Chamber of Commerce, the Young Men's City Club and the Santa Monica Bay Merchants' Association have for more than a year sought the amalgamation of the two companies, the latter having in record as pledging its members to take out the phones of the company that would refuse to consider the proposal to merge.

PLEADS GUILTY, FINED.

Lloyd Dagle, 22-year-old milk wagon driver of No. 2217 Sheridan avenue, Los Angeles, pleaded guilty to $25 by Judge M. R. King in Police Court, after he had pleaded guilty to assault and disturbance of the peace. According to the evidence, Dagle had jumped from the running board of a car driven by T. E. O'Connor, 19-year-old employee of a Los Angeles garage, to the running board of a jitney bus and struck Ormond Bennett, a passenger in the latter conveyance, a blow in the face. The latter swore to the complaint. The trouble grew out of an attempt to merge the motorists to fight with a fair jitney-bus passenger, followed by a collision between the bus and the automobile in the early morning after the fourth. O'Connor was fined $75 last week for driving while intoxicated. Dagle was released today after several days in jail before his fine was paid. Dagle's fine was paid by his mother.

ITALIAN RELIEF DAY.

An Italian relief day is planned for August 10 by the Santa Monica Bay Cities Chapter of the Red Cross. The open air market, which is conducted daily in the garden adjoining the Chapter House, under the direction of Mrs. C. C. Waring, will display all its proceeds on that day to the Italian relief fund.

HONORED BY KING.

Word has just reached this city of the knighting by King George of England of Harry Brittain, well known here and in Los Angeles. He was the guest here in 1915 of former Mayor T. H. Dudley, when touring the United States in the interest of the Royal Colonial Institute.

FOREST FIRE STARTS.

Quick Action of Rangers Prevents Serious Damage in Fish Canyon Region.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.) AZUSA, July 8.—A forest fire broke out in Fish Canyon, in the Sierra Nevada Mountains near here, today, and had it not been for the quick action of forest rangers and volunteer fire-fighters serious damage might have been done. As it was, about 300 acres were burned over before the blaze was thoroughly under control, is the report.

The alarm was sent in from station No. 48, and Acting Forest Supervisor Lackey and a force of rangers from Los Angeles rushed to the scene. The cause of the conflagration has not been definitely established.

INSTANTLY KILLED.

Pasadena Woman Struck by Car at Huntington Drive and Alhambra Road.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.) SOUTH PASADENA, July 8.—A woman, who was later identified as Mrs. J. M. Ratcliffe, No. 1854 East Washington street, Pasadena, was struck and instantly killed by a Pacific Electric car at Huntington drive and Alhambra road yesterday afternoon. The body was taken to the undertaking parlors of Turner, Stevens & Berry, Pasadena, where Mr. Ratcliffe, husband, and son, called and cleared up the identity of the deceased, which had been a mystery for several hours.

PAY ADVANCES DENIED,
SHOPMEN MAY STRIKE.

(BY A. P. MONTREAL.) MONTREAL, July 8.—Power to call a strike on the Dominion railway has been asked of the local unions by representatives of the Federated Trades of the mechanical and car departments of the railway. Management saying the Railway war board, with which they have been negotiating for substantial wage increase, continues to refuse to grant their demands, have been sent to all local unions. Replies were coming in today, and union officials announced that it was practically certain that by tomorrow they would be invested with power to send out a strike order.

WEATHER ELSEWHERE.

Chicago Temperature Rises Coincident with Firing of Pro-German Editor.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.) CHICAGO, July 8.—Coincident with the announcement from Washington that the editor of the monthly weather review has been dropped from the Weather Bureau service because of pro-Germanism, there was a slight improvement in temperature in Chicago today. The maximum was all of five degrees higher than yesterday, the warmest for the day being 64 deg. at 6:30 p. m. The minimum was 38 deg., recorded at 4 a. m. While the temperature was higher, slightly, in the upper Mississippi Valley, it was lower in the middle portion of the same valley, and there were showers in Southern Illinois and Missouri and over a territory extending eastward to the Atlantic Coast. There was no sign of rain here.

ALL NATION'S STEEL NOW TAKEN FOR SHIPBUILDING, SAYS SCHWABMust Speed Iron Production, Declares Director-General of Emergency Fleet Corporation, Here—Is Given an Ovation by Local Business Chiefs.

THE business of building ships in the United States has grown to such proportions as to have now absorbed practically all the nation's available supply of steel, said Charles M. Schwab, Director-General of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, and iron master of the world at the luncheon tendered him by the Chamber of Commerce shortly after his arrival here yesterday.

For that reason, Mr. Schwab declared, it now becomes necessary for the United States to turn its attention to producing more steel—in spite of the fact that we now make more than half of all the steel used in the world. He added that, rather than establish more shipyards, we should speed up production in those which we already have.

GIVEN OVATION.

Radiating enthusiasm and Americanism, Mr. Schwab arrived from San Francisco yesterday forenoon and literally took Los Angeles by storm. In the Schwab party were Mr. and Mrs. Schwab, their niece, Miss Mock, Dr. Charles Eaton, Charles Fies, the vice-president and general manager, and C. W. Cuthell, general counsel for the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

The informal reception, which took place at the Southern Pacific depot was remarkable for its display of Southern California patriotism and hospitality. Three hundred members of the Chamber of Commerce, headed by Vice-President Watt L. Moreland and Secretary Frank Wiggins assisted Mayor Woodman in extending the glad hand. The band of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company employees escorted the Schwab party to the Alexandria Hotel, where a luncheon was tendered the guests of honor.

Five hundred and seventy-nine people were seated at the banquet tables. The affair was really the biggest of its kind that has taken place here in years. Frank Bristol of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, a leader, and a sailor held Old Glory high above the tables, while 600 voices joined in singing "The Star Spangled Banner." As the Director-General of America's gigantic shipbuilding program walked to the speaker's table his eye fell upon the model of a concrete ship, mounted directly in front of him, and a smile of pleasure lighted up his face.

IS CHEERED.

As he took his seat the audience joined Frank Bristol in three cheers and a tiger, which resolved itself into a new version of an old yell, as follows: "Ship, ship, away! Ship, ship, away! Ship, ship, away! Ship, ship, away! Ship, ship, away! Ship, ship, away!"

Mr. Schwab expressed his appreciation of the tribute with a bow. Watt L. Moreland, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, and toastmaster of the luncheon, proposed a toast to President Wilson. After it was quaffed the banqueters indulged in another round of yelling: "Ship, ship, away! Ship, ship, away! Ship, ship, away! Ship, ship, away! Ship, ship, away!"

Alberta and Borena Davis, famous in the army cantonments as Samuels Sisters, entertained for five minutes by giving a dozen or more of the familiar army bugle calls. These young women, incidentally, came from Loretto, Pa., where Mr. Schwab, as a boy, was employed as stake driver for steel companies.

At the banquet table Dr. Eaton and Mr. Schwab regaled themselves with fresh butterflied until the Director-General was introduced. His acknowledgment of the introduction was the signal for another round of yelling: "Ship, ship, away! Ship, ship, away! Ship, ship, away! Ship, ship, away! Ship, ship, away!"

Released Mr. Schwab immensely and the visiting party stepped from the launch to the docks of the Wampus, the band played "Stars and Stripes Forever." It was about midday when Mr. Schwab climbed onto the deck, beside the bandmaster. He grabbed the baton, and at the same time, he grabbed the baton, and at the same time, he grabbed the baton.

"Well, boys, do you drive rivets as well as you play?" came the booming voice of "Charlie" Schwab as the conclusion of the selection. "If you do, I'll say that's going some." Then followed a general inspection of the shipyard and its record in shipbuilding in the few months since it has been in operation. Following the inspection he conferred with officers of the corporation.

At 5:45 o'clock the men of the day shift streamed out from the various departments literally by the thousands. The music of the shipyard band called them to assemble in the large open space in front of the shipyard. Here they were fully 6000 men crowded close together, in order that they might hear every word that the leader of United States Shipbuilding had to say.

NEW RECORDS for Your Victrola On Sale Today
A Few of the Best Numbers from the July List

Caruso and de Gogorza sing a delightful duet "In the Moonlight"—a typical Spanish song of exquisite beauty. A superb rendition that will evoke the applause of thousands of Victor enthusiasts.

"The War Baby's Lullaby" by Geraldine Farrar. This timely little lullaby with its crooning melody and tender sentiments is admirably sung with Farrar's characteristic expressiveness.

Alma Gluck presents a beautiful old favorite "A record of 'Angels Ever Bright and Fair' that makes this beloved number seem more beautiful than ever—so superb is Gluck's interpretation.

A song of tender memories by John McCormack "Little Mother of Mine." A simple beautiful song interpreted with all the wealth of feeling McCormack can so ably bestow.

Harry Lauder sings a cheery new "soldier" song. Marches by Sousa and Caruso are among the band records.

Ten inspiring vocal and instrumental war-time numbers.

Come in Today while you are sure of getting the records desired. We will gladly play the late numbers for you.

WOMEN'S WORK.
BY ALMA WHITTAKER.
Woman's City Club.
Attendance at the Woman's City Club yesterday showed marked signs of counter-attractions elsewhere. Still, there was a goodly audience to the local billboards, and the board question as set forth with calm informality. Impartiality by Mrs. Cora V. Lewis, who valiantly stood her impersonal ground. Mrs. Lewis, who has studied all the billboard regulations in the country, was in a position to give the audience a most interesting and instructive talk.

DRAMA.

"POLLY WITH A PAST."

By Henry Christen Warnack.
An anti-bellum audience greeted Ina Claire and the brilliant company in "Polly with a Past" at the Mason Opera House last night. It was the sort of audience we used to have when times were at the top of themselves, and the audience enjoyed the play the way they used to do when plays were at the top of themselves. It seems a long time since audiences or plays have been as good as those last night.

THEY ARE NEEDED.

The shipping board has placed prizes on the list of non-essentials. The members of that body never partook of the California variety, we will wager a cookie.

AFTER HIM.

The government should not waste any time or energy in going after the disloyal war profiteer. He is worse than the Hun, for he is masquerading as a good American.

THE CLINGING VINE.

In these days when the nation's sturdy young manhood is being drawn upon so heavily if a girl has a real flame she would best cling to him closely and tenderly. The times may yet show a famine in sweethearts.

NOW THEY KNOW.

With the private cars eliminated from the railways, the magnates will now be able to appreciate the inconveniences of common folks who have been compelled to dress in the upper berths. We have got even with them at last.

HIS BUDY DAY.

Maybe the President is anxious to take over the telephone and telephone lines in order to give his capable son-in-law something to do. There must be a couple of minutes every week or so when the Secretary of the Treasury hasn't a thing on hand but a lot of work.

SILENT SOLDIERS.

There is a good deal of the Gen. Grant in Gen. Foch, commander-in-chief of the Allied armies. He is not given to much talk. As to the reserve army about which there is so much interest on both sides of the Atlantic, he says nothing. Foch can maintain silence in at least three different languages.

A SATISFACTORY ADJUSTMENT.

Today, in his letter to Lenin, Foch proposes that Russia shall end the war by demobilization without signing any peace. If this is done he says that Germany will be unable to make a verdictungkrieg, but the Kaiser must be content with a Kuendigung. That as Roosevelt might say "settles the cat hop."

FEW EMIGRANTS COMING.

Another result of the war is the way in which our immigration has been halted. For the fiscal year closing June 30, there were less than 100,000 arrivals, which is the smallest number in any year since our colonial days. Of all the nations of the world Japan is the only one with a normal number of emigrants coming to America. It is doubtful whether Europe will ever send as many as formerly came over. What we need is a lot of Chinamen to serve in the farm lands.

STILL WILD AND WOOLLY.

A Texas ranger captain sent a scorching resignation to the Governor, following the dismissal of five rangers for killing fifteen Mexican bandits. There is something independent about those wild, woolly-souled Texans that is appealing to every red-blooded individual. If a thieving, murderous bandit interferes with a Texan's right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," he considers it only an act of duty to dispose of said bandit pronto, without delay. The whole country is an international dispute concerning his rights.

THE HAPPY WARRIOR.

The temper of the lanky battlers that America is sending overseas is illustrated by a paragraph in a letter from a captain of artillery wherein he says: "If you do any praying for soldiers pray that Uncle Sam does not find out how much sport we get out of a battle, else he will be charging us for it." These are the breezy warriors who pour out of the trenches with all the zeal and ardor of a bunch of collegians invading a football field. People are prone to speak festively of men who would rather fight than eat; but France is full of such today. There is a joy in conflict that the healthy young American comprehends. There isn't much patience with a pacifist in such company.

WANTS HIS PIPE.

An eminent crank and retired pacifist is writing letters to his Congressman complaining that a million acres of land in this country is planted in tobacco. He says that if this was in grain it would sustain an army of 300,000 men in the field. Without taking the time to prove this fantastic prevaricator he it might be said that the million men already in the field would rather have the tobacco than the male reinforcements if it came to a showdown. There should be no room in authority for men who are so narrow that they would rather lose the war than have it won by a soldier who smoked a cigar or drank an occasional glass of beer. The busy crusaders, who are striving to make the American army a bone dry and smokeless one, are perhaps disturbing the morale of the forces more than if they were firing German shells at them.

THE CALL OF SIBERIA.

There is a deep—even a romantic significance to be attached to the landing of American troops in Siberia. It means that the Aryan tribes have begun a new migration.

Somewhere in the misty centuries of the past a band of herders on the high plains of Mid-Asia stirred restlessly. They looked toward the West; and the sunset beckoned to them. They began a slow migration and the story of their wanderings and of the hegiras that followed, is the story of the race life of the Aryan people. And the story of the race life of the Aryan people is the history of world conquest.

They went on and on, ever to the westward. They were a grazing people and they followed the grass belts—always the grass. Their progress westward was like the onward march of the herds—slowly grazing and marching and grazing again.

And they left their mark as they grazed. The great empires of Greece and Rome rose and fell. France and Britain grew from their seed.

But still the Aryan herders pressed on. The migration stopped for a space at the water's edge, but the restless yearning to be going westward—ever westward, drove them across the sea to the New World. The last great migration of the Aryans was the crossing of the plains to California.

When Horace Greeley told the young men to go West, he was only putting into new words the ancient urge of the race. He was saying in English what, no doubt, some olden sage had said ages before in the forgotten Sanskrit tongue to the forbears of these same young men.

Well, the Aryans have gone westward and still westward.

They are again beating at the shores of the water.

The events of this war will cause them inevitably to press on across the water as before.

We are in sight of the old home lands. Our race had its start on the plateau of Mid-Asia. We are coming home again.

We all think that President Wilson is about to decide this question. But in a deeper and truer way, it was decided ages ago that the Aryan people should press on and onward until they had circled the globe and had come home again.

In the larger sense no one knows what destiny this is to fulfill. No one knows in the final analysis what it shall signify that we of the Aryan race have made the circle. Who knows? There are those who think the day of the white man is about done and that the yellow races are next to have the stage.

Is this what it means? Does it signify that the Aryan races are literally coming to the setting sun, which they have pursued for so many ages? No one can say. It is for us to press on to the west as is our destiny. It is for higher powers to interpret the meaning of this destiny.

II.

ALTHOUGH the larger meanings are not for our reading, the immediate effect of the landing of our troops in Siberia is clear and plain.

Parentetically, it may be remarked that The Times does not wish to be understood as asserting that the troops have landed or are about to land. President Wilson's plans have not been announced and we have no wish to anticipate them. It is a simple and inevitable fact, however, that American troops will sooner or later be landed in Siberia. That follows as the day follows night.

The opening of Siberia to America, as to Japan, will be a wonderful episode—deep with meaning and importance to both Siberia and America.

Every war is followed by a restless period. These boys will not all be able to come from the trenches to their old occupations.

On the staff of a well-known British general, for instance, are two officers who have especially distinguished themselves as soldiers. Before the war both officers were footmen in the home of the general on whose staff they are serving. It is not to be expected that after the war they will return to the old job of seeing that the illustrious One's wine glass is kept filled.

While there are no more contrasts quite so striking as this, at the same time there will be thousands of young men in our own army who will not willingly go back to the monotonous places of peace. Many of these boys have gone to the army straight from school. They do not know how to cope with the problems of commercial and industrial struggles.

It goes without saying that a lad who has been living a life of wild adventure in the open air will be restless when you tie him down to a desk. You remember the David of fortune in the Richard Harding Davis story who could not endure the picture of himself as coming to work every morning and inquiring of the conductor why car No. 37 was late yesterday morning.

No, countless thousands of them will not be able to do it. They have had a taste of the outdoors. They will go back to a life of adventure at any cost.

III.

AFTER the Civil War in the United States we witnessed this same upheaval—this same restless shifting of the young men. It happened in '65 that we had at hand a vast empire of vacant land waiting for the plow of the pioneer. The West was settled by boys who fought in the war and couldn't go back to the old dull occupations of their peace days.

But there will be no great empty expanse of West waiting for the boys who come home from this war. They will have to move along further. The plains of Siberia are waiting for them.

A vast rich empire under the polar sun waits to keep true with its pioneers. Siberia is a country for young men. It is a cold, bleak land. There is zip in the air; adventure in the forests and richness everywhere. Siberia has about 3,000,000,000 acres. Of this, something like 86 per cent. is the property of the state and will not doubt be open for settlement. The czar alone kept a small patch of 114,700,000 acres as his share.

The population is less than 1.2 persons per square mile. The land is practically terra incognita. It is impossible to find an adequate description of the land off the line of the railroad. Geographers are not even sure of the course of the great Siberian rivers.

We do know, however, that the mountains of Siberia abound in minerals; the rivers are alive with fish. Agriculturally the new land gives brilliant promise.

The climate is incredibly severe in winter, but the summers are golden with glory. Owing to the suddenness with which the furious summer heat bursts upon this enormous plateau, crops grow with amazing rapidity and richness. Corn planted in May is ripe in August.

A part of the country is unsuited for cultivation. Something like 500,000 square miles is known to be hillable. These statistics, however, are probably about as reliable and, in future days, will be considered about as amazing as were some of the early maps of the United States.

The feet of the young men have lagged in these latter days. Adventurous boys sighed to think that the whole world had been explored and turned into respectable back yards; the world was for them as an egg without salt. They need sigh no more. With the sweeping aside of the old Russia and the disposition of the Romanoffs a great new day has come. The loss of his little farm of 114,700,000 acres no doubt leaves Mr. Romanoff bereft and feeling out at the heel; but it has given Siberia to the world.

The pendulum swings both ways; things are broad; also they have length.

The opening of Siberia will be a boon—in fact, a necessary outlet to the civilized nations of the world. But consider the boon to Siberia and to Russia and the Orient. Consider Siberia steeped in its black ignorance opened to the flood of these young adventurers, these pioneers of civilization. Their brains and their pulses quickened by their army life; their spirits made resolute by their adventure; equipped with all that the new science of the war has to offer them—what wonders will they not work in this new land under the polar sun?

DIPLOMAS AND MEN.

We, the people of the United States, have learned many things in the past year, and one of them is about diplomas and men. In the huge task of evolving a compact army from a tremendous mass of raw material, the heads of that army have discovered that a diploma does not make a man. If a man is a thinker and a doer, a diploma may even be a guarantee that he knows how to think, that he is a trained thinker and that his mind will take no false steps and be guilty of little waste motion. If he is not a thinker, all the colleges in the world cannot supply him with brains.

This is not new, but the way in which it applies to the army and its present needs is entirely so. Laws affecting the graduation and commissioning of line officers have been changed many times in the past fifteen months and are liable to be changed again. It has been discovered that large numbers of men who left training schools for officers with commissions as captains and majors, were scarcely entitled to warrants as second lieutenants. Under the latest law the highest office a man can expect from one of these training camps is a commission as second lieutenant, and he is then put upon a sort of waiting list. In fact, a great many of the men are graduated as first sergeants and are expected to qualify

HEARST SCORES AGAIN.

We believe it was the great and only William Randolph Hearst who, several months ago, diverted attention from necessary war work for a time by a silly proposal to collect money in this country to rebuild the shattered cities and villages and cities without waiting for the end of the war. As generally happens when a man goes forth to sell gold bricks, Hearst found buyers. Money was contributed, building materials were bought and taken practically to the German front lines. Now the Germans have that building material. Hearst has scored again.

It would have been better for the Allies, and would have saved time and trouble, if those who contributed the money had deposited it in a New York bank to the credit of the German government. For in the case the Germans could not use it before the end of the war. But also in that case Hearst would not have made such a brilliant record. He gets the glory and the Kaiser gets the building material.—[San Francisco Star.]

The new army bill will provide for the appropriation for twelve billion dollars. We are certainly getting into this war up to our necks.

THE LETTERS OF LEMUEL BEAN.

Economy is the Grand Passion in New York.

BY ROY K. MOUTON.

NEW YORK, July 6.

ECONOMY is running rampant in our neighborhood. It is on account of the war. Everybody is looking toward conservation. Just the other day Mrs. Peck, who lives on our street, bought her husband for his birthday a straight-handled umbrella so that he couldn't leave it hanging on some bar. The ladies of our community apartment-house get together every Thursday and devise little ways and means of saving money.

Just the other day one of the stores in a neighboring town advertised a bargain sale in butter at 52 cents a pound, instead of 55, as we had to pay out in our little community store.

The word was passed around quickly and every woman telephoned for her husband to stop at said store and get a pound of butter. Every husband did and paid 10 cents extra to go out of his way and get the pound of butter. Also, it cost 5 cents to telephone each husband to go and get the butter. Each pound of butter bought in that store cost us 62 cents plus 15 cents expenses. How much cheaper that was than paying 55 cents a pound at our home store.

Economy is the grand passion. But it calls for just as much efficiency as any other form of human endeavor, if not more.

We, all of us, just love economy. We love to see our neighbor practice it. It is an interesting sight. So few people know how to handle it.

I have often told my wife, Luella, that she should learn economy from an efficiency expert; not that I believe in efficiency experts, but because I knew if Luella began taking lessons from an efficiency expert she would soon become disgusted and chuck the whole thing. Luella's economy has really cost us a great deal of money. Like the time we got salmon at 15 cents a can because it was so cheap, and then suffered a delightful season of stomach poisoning and a doctor bill. Some of Luella's economy dishes have driven her faithful and devoted husband to the one-armed restaurant.

Last season we saved a great deal of money by going to a hotel where we obtained a room for $1.50 a day. That room was all that could be desired, but the meals cost us $4 apiece. And it cost us $7 to get to the hotel and back.

The boys who write hotel ads are not at all balm, as it were.

The other day I got home and found Luella busily engaged with a pair of shears cutting the tails of my dress coat. It is the only coat I had with tails.

"I don't wish to be inquisitive," I said, "and I know you have only my best wishes at heart, but I would like to ask why you are transforming my dress coat into a tuxedo by removing the appendages? I was very proud of those coat-tails. They covered up a mended place in the trousers."

Luella said nothing but pointed to a headline in the paper which said: "The War Industries Board was about to omit coat-tails from the general scheme of existence, so as to save material and announce that coat-tails were a 'non-essential' industry anyhow."

"Did the board place the ban on existing coat-tails or merely suggest that countless unborn coat-tails should be left in oblivion?" I asked.

"I really don't know," said Luella, "I merely read the headline."

"How will those two coat-tails help win the war?" I asked.

"They are going to be very useful. I am going to sew them together, inside out so the silk will show, and they will make a perfect-looking wonderful shopping bag."

There was no answer to an argument of that kind, at least not one that could be put over without some vituperative language.

"While back," I continued, "we were told that half-soled trousers and half-soled shoes would be very stylish during the coming year. We were led to believe that when a man walked down the street with a pale pink patch on the bosom of a pair of green trousers that he would be marked at once as a patriot. Every man agreed with this policy. Patches are no disgrace. Everybody was satisfied and you know, Luella, I asked you to sew a patch on my clothing even when it was not needed so that I could look like a patriot. Wearing a Liberty Loan button didn't seem to answer the purpose. Liberty Loan buttons don't attract enough attention."

"Are you delivering a lecture or trying to sell me a patent vacuum cleaner or mop wringer or something?" yawned Luella, giving the seat coat-tail a final snip with the shears.

"No. The point I am trying to make is this. They tell us that half-soled trousers are very au fait, and

RIPLING RHYMES.

STILL LIVING.

We've lived to see the greatest scrap that ever jarred the munitions map. Four years ago, in padded days, we spent our money hunting ways. Some prophets stood around and said that balmy peace would soon be dead. They pawed the air, it made them weep that other nations seemed asleep, while at their forges busy Huns were making swords and bombs and guns. "Go to, false prophets!" we exclaimed: "you really ought to be ashamed to read your barbs and say that peace, the precious boon, will ever cease. We're civilized, we've advanced; the world is now so circumstanced that every nation only asks a chance to do its useful tasks, to bask its hay and put up its ice, and see it always has the price. No government is so insane that it has conquest on the brain, so chase your selves, oh prophets seers, and let us live to see the planet torn, we've lived to see the nations mourn. And we shall live to see the Hun, who wished a reprieve in the sun, into the outer darkness cast and grooving in a horror vast."

A Hopeless Case.

Passing a hand over his forehead, the worried drill sergeant paused for breath as he surveyed the knock-kneed recruit. Then he pointed a scornful finger.

PEN POINT

BY THE SEASIDE.

The sensible love letters are written.

An automobilist's home town is where there is no filling station.

Another popular reason to hate the number of men in the war bread.

To have white flour in no sign of patriotism. On the contrary quite the reverse.

Have seen nothing of Carey Grayson on the battleship chasing the submarines.

Our morning text, delivered by the Rev. Dr. Kaiser: "God hath made the kingdom and finished his work. Where is he?"

David Lloyd George, from business as a rule. There are none for the face in loyal England.

Favorite excurses—"I've saved stamps! Great! I need a lift myself—I'll be the last installment of my motor car."

Doesn't it make you a person sit and listen while him or her is making a speech and then have him turn and ask what you said?

What has become of the lone drug store where nothing but drugs and are indicated by the color in great bottles in the window?

Some of the universities having the names of those who have died in this war. What a sacrifice the students must be making in freedom throughout the world.

Women architects are the core, as many of them fashion have gone to the front. They claim that in all places where they put a class of room—except where they put a class of room.

Former President Taft's war will continue three years. The American Revolution continued eight years; the American Civil War, four years; the American Crimean War, two years; the American Franco-Prussian War, one year.

Austrian armies have been lucky in wars in the past. The record of defeats runs way from the thirteenth century to the seventh century, 1866, when they were defeated by the Prussians under the Prince Frederick at the battle of Sadowa.

A barber up at the head. Flight, who had a picture pole in his shop, had been down. A customer told Napoleon always in taking it seriously when they have to. It is entirely possible that, within a year or two, the barber will be a thing of the past.

Soon the people will begin taking economy seriously and then we will see the barber always in taking it seriously when they have to. It is entirely possible that, within a year or two, the barber will be a thing of the past.

A good strong dose of economy will result in a world of good. We have needed a sacrifice bath for some time. And the economy will fall directly upon the class of people who need the least. The fairly well-to-do, who have always kept about two jumps ahead of the bank, will be the first to feel the pinch of the economy wave at all. It is old stuff to them. They know more about economy than the poor who have to live on it.

We all have admitted economy in our neighborhood. The time will come when we will have to take it home and try it on our own plans.

As Luella was saying the other night, "I have already, by careful watching, saved enough on our household expenses to buy me a duck of a set of summer furs that I have been wanting for a long time."

And she went and got them out of the cedar chest and showed them to me.

Economy is home medicine—if you know how to handle it.

The Entering Wedge of Trade

MARKETS for manufactured goods, markets for natural products, and yet more markets, will be the imperative need of the United States when the war ends. The fullest development and the broadest outlet of America's commercial and industrial power will be required to give the Nation strength to support its war taxes and bond issues.

War is consuming the country's resources at a prodigal rate. The cost called for in the first two years alone will be more than forty billions of dollars, and most of this vast expenditure will bring no return in property or trade.

America's highest ideal is service to humanity. It has launched an enterprise of service of unparalleled magnitude. To render this service it must bear the stupendous burden, not only of providing all its own supplies and paying its own great war costs, but of feeding and financing the whole world of its allies and most of the neutral nations as well.

The hand that gives and lends without stint must also gather with prudence and energy. The nation "that scattereth" must also be careful of its "increase," that its liberality and its power of service to humanity may not be cut off, and that its scattering to a needy world may not mean the impoverishment of its own people at home. World service must be supported and broadened by world business.

More trade, broader markets within our own land and throughout the world, greater development of our natural resources and of our manufacturing power, more thorough and efficient selling methods, must be America's answer to her own compelling need.

THE LITERARY DIGEST is the entering wedge of the Nation's trade. It is a great national constructive force for building the material wealth and power necessary to accomplish America's mighty task and to realize its high ideal of service. THE LITERARY DIGEST is giving, now, its powerful help to the Government and to the American manufacturer and producer by driving the wedge of American trade into every city, and town, and country-side of the United States, and into more than ninety foreign countries throughout the world.

"Markets enough"? "All the world will be clamoring for American goods after the war"? Yes, everywhere there are markets, but they are not yet our markets. Customers in the Orient, and in Latin America, and in Australasia, and in all the nations at war are waiting to spend hundreds of millions of dollars a year for American goods, but these hundreds of millions may be spent for other goods.

The nations where most will be needed will be the least able to buy and to pay. They must buy at the lowest prices, and must borrow from the seller to pay for the goods. The markets less hampered by ruin of war will yield to the most seductive salesmanship and the most aggressive advertising. The struggle, even now, is on. The nations of Europe, our friends and our enemies, are preparing quietly, but swiftly, intensely, to capture these markets for themselves.

Before the war, America owned less than two per cent. of the world's cargo-carrying tonnage on the high seas. After the war, the United States will probably own nearly fifty per cent. of the ships that can carry the world's trade. What shall we do with them? Shall they be sold to foreign owners to carry foreign goods to markets captured by foreign enterprise, or shall they be loaded full with American products for all the world, to be sold in the markets open to us if we claim them before it is too late? THE LITERARY DIGEST will help American business men to compel a right answer.

The United States Government has sent an advertising man to South America to investigate trade possibilities and advertising methods, in order that the nation may gain and hold trade on the continent to the South. THE LITERARY DIGEST already has established and is now maintaining vital points of contact not only with the peoples of the South American nations, but also with the peoples of nearly a hundred other nations throughout the world. The advertisements of American business men in THE LITERARY DIGEST represent not merely "trade possibilities," but trade certainties.

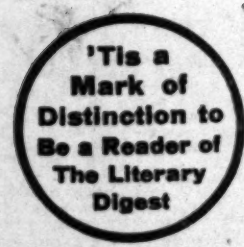

For the same reason that more than 282,000 merchants and manufacturers in the United States are reading THE LITERARY DIGEST with close attention, business men in many other lands are reading it. Just as it meets the needs of more than two million readers among the busy, thinking, active men and women of America, who give their substantial support to American business at home, so it is satisfying the needs of many thousands of close readers in other nations and thus supplying to American business men the all important contact with, and entrance into, the markets of those nations. Just as THE LITERARY DIGEST gives the American manufacturer and producer a driving wedge of trade into every highway and every byway of America where customers may be found or made, so this same preeminent Magazine of America drives the winning wedge of trade for him.

Into All the Busy Markets of the World.

STEEL RECEDES ON DULL MARKET; RALLY AT CLOSE.

No Explanation Offered for Heavy Tendency; Speculative Groups Fall.

NEW YORK, July 8.—(By A. P. Night Wire.)—Steel shares were under persistent pressure of excess reserves by local banks and more definite intimations concerning new capital requirements by railroads and industrial corporations, events over the week-end offered no explanation for today's dull and heavy stock market.

Foreign news was reassuring in the main and domestic developments were unchanged, save for sporadic labor troubles and firmer monetary tendencies, especially in time funds.

With scarcely an exception, leading shares were under persistent pressure, the selling again focusing about United States Steel, which suffered an extreme recession of 2 1/2 points. Kindred issues yielded sympathetically and rails also were reactionary, dividend payers losing 1 to 1 1/2.

Among the several speculative groups, Sumatra Tobacco experienced a gross setback of 7 points and General Motors, 4, with 4 for United Cigars and 1 to 2 1/2 for

BANK DEPOSITS, PROFITS
INCREASE IN HALF YEAR.

THE semi-annual statement of the Los Angeles Clearinghouse Association, issued yesterday afternoon, shows that deposits have increased during the past six months. Profits of the banks also increased, but the dividends paid to stockholders have decreased considerably and total resources show an increase of $14,384,914.25, over 1917. Yesterday's clearings were $1,462,549, last year, an increase of $12,549,000.

The thirty-one local banks clearing through the association carry a total of $14,384,914.25, against $249,464,974.40, last year, showing an increase of $1,090,237.40.

For investment in manufacturing and building development, the banks have loaned $235,910,115.33, much more than last year, because of the near the city.

Altogether the figures in the statement are declared satisfactory by the bankers of this city, and if the expectations on the subject by several financiers are to be taken as being that of the Los Angeles banks generally, a period of above normal prosperity, despite the war and its obligations in a financial way, is in prospect for Southern California during the next six months.

One hope of this as indicated, lies in the expectation of new industries, occasioned principally by the war. Chief of these, it is believed, will be that of additional shipbuilding. Again larger outlays of the government in the matter of equipping and provisioning the greater number of men in the army and navy establishments in this part of the State are expected to be reflected in banking figures at the end of December.

The attitude of uncertainty, which prevailed in many business lines for a long period after America's entrance into the war, incident to the government determining the course in the matter of purchase allowance of profits, etc., now is regarded as practically at an end with the result that all producing endeavor may go ahead to its fullest capacity, knowing just where it stands.

The increase in deposits during the past six months is regarded as truly noteworthy, considering the demands of the war upon the average depositor, money born of the Liberty Loan subscriptions and contributions to the Red Cross. The deposit figures are held as an index of a high average of individual prosperity here. During the next six months, it is expected, with the launching of new enterprises, are confidently expected to be considerably, if not largely, increased.
